Move to Kill It Defeated
Lockheed Loan Bill Survives
First Crucial Test in Senate

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP).—The Senate refused today to kill a bill designed to rescue Lockheed Aircraft Corp. from financial troubles.

The defense contractor, which says it needs $250 million in government backing for private bank loans to avoid bankruptcy, thus won its first crucial test on the floor.

But opponents of the bill, led by Sen. William Proxmire, D., Wis., indicated they still planned to talk at length against the measure, hoping to delay its final approval past the start of Congress' month-long summer recess Aug. 8.

The Senate voted, 56 to 38, to table a motion by Sen. Proxmire which would have returned the bill to the Senate Banking Committee for further hearing and study until July 29. The tabling motion was offered by Banking Committee chairman John Sparkman, D., Ala., after some six hours' debate.

Nixon's Plan
For Funding
RFE Loses

By Benjamin Welles
WASHINGTON, July 21 (NYT).—Sen. J.W. Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, defeated today a Nixon administration plan to fund and operate Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty under a tax-exempt, public-private corporation chartered by Congress rather than through the Central Intelligence Agency.

The CIA has run the two stations for 20 years.

By voice vote, the committee members behind closed doors, first killed the administration's measure and then adopted in its place a proposal offered by Sen. Clifford P. Case, R., N.J., Jan. 24. This will, in effect, give the two stations $35 million for operations for another year and will leave them under present CIA control.

Ironically, Sen. Case had supported the administration plan on which he has been working with the State Department for several months, in place of his own. However, according to congressional sources, Sen. Fulbright, D., Ark., questioned the continuing need for the two stations and won majority support for a stop-gap measure to keep them functioning until long-range plans can be drawn up and approved.

Cold-War Leftovers
Sen. Fulbright is said to have criticized the stations as remnants of the cold war "unsuitable to current efforts to achieve a relaxation of tensions with the U.S.S.R."

Sen. Fulbright is said to have expressed irritation over the large number of radio installations in Western Europe run by such U.S. agencies as The Voice of America, the CIA and the armed forces. The U.S. Armed Services Network, for instance, is said to include 43 separate installations in West Germany.

Radio Free Europe, which broadcasts to East European countries, and Radio Liberty, which broadcasts to the Soviet Union, were started as CIA operations in 1950 and 1961, respectively, at the height of the cold war.

Sen. Case disclosed on Jan. 24 that the CIA had spent "hundreds of millions" of dollars, on the instructions of successive administrations, in the last 20 years to keep the two stations functioning.

Under CIA Officials
While each maintains an office in New York and claims to be funded through public and private donations, RFE and RL, located in Munich, are under the operating control of CIA officials. Each station is manned largely by broadcasters and analysts of ethnic European extraction, and the content of newscasts and analyses is comprised largely of items censored by the Communist regimes.

On June 25 the Senate passed a resolution appropriating funds for various agencies until the regular appropriations bills had cleared Congress. The resolution contained a little-noticed paragraph giving the two stations an appropriation for the coming fiscal year equal to the approximately $35 million they have been receiving annually from the CIA.

Sen. Fulbright told reporters after today's hearing that he had asked the General Accounting Office and the Library of Congress to prepare studies in depth of RFE and RL operations.

Could Affect 500,000
1944 Court-Martial Quashed
On '69 Supreme Court Ruling

By Morris Kaplan
NEW YORK, July 21 (NYT).—A 1944 court-martial conviction was overturned yesterday by a U.S. District Court judge in Brooklyn who applied retroactively a 1969 Supreme Court ruling which held as illegal military jurisdiction over non-service related crimes.

Judge Jack B. Weinstein, in a 29-page opinion which could affect 500,000 former servicemen, absolved former Navy Reserve seaman who had pleaded guilty before a military tribunal to charges of stealing an automobile while absent without leave.

The judge directed that his dishonorable discharge for auto theft be expunged and that his record be modified to carry a permissive penalty of a bad conduct discharge "for being AWOL."

The plaintiff, John W. Fleming, was 18 years old at his court-martial. He served 26 months of a three-year prison sentence after being reduced in rank from seaman 2d class to apprentice seaman.

In setting aside the conviction, Judge Weinstein cited the Supreme Court ruling in O'Callahan vs. Parker that courts-martial had no jurisdiction over servicemen accused of civilian crimes. And for the first time, he decided that the ruling must be retroactively applied.

The Supreme Court did not deal with cases arising prior to O'Callahan vs. Parker. That case involved a habeas corpus proceeding challenging the jurisdiction of a court-martial to try a soldier who assaulted a girl on private property while he was on leave and in civilian clothing.

Judge Weinstein acknowledged that he had "no abiding assurance" of how the appellate courts would treat the issue. He noted that other courts which have our greatest respect have taken a contrary position. But he expressed concern about "fundamental differences" in the civil and military justice system.

He acknowledged, moreover, that his ruling might have an adverse impact on the validity of hundreds of thousands of past court-martial sentences.

'Deprived of Liberty'
"It is not clear," he wrote, "how many men presently incarcerated are involved, but if they have been deprived of liberty by a body lacking power to do so, they should be released."

"Much of the administrative burden created by applications for more favorable forms of discharge may be handled by a congressional adoption of a short statute of limitations or by administrative remedies."

Mr. Fleming should have been tried in the civil courts in either New Jersey, where the car was stolen, or Pennsylvania, where the car was transported, the judge held. He said the right to be tried in the vicinity had been considered fundamental since the Magna Charta.

U.S. Grand Jury In Secrets Case Was Replaced
WASHINGTON, July 21 (NYT).—The government has disbanded a federal grand jury in Boston looking into the case of the Pentagon Papers and replaced it with another grand jury. Government sources said the action was taken because of a leak to the press.

According to these sources, the government disbanded the jury late last week. It has not moved against any of the grand jurors who were sitting on the panel, but the presumption is that it felt one or more of the jurors had violated their oath of secrecy by talking with the press.

The new grand jury that was empaneled has picked up the investigation this week. The attention of the jury is reported to be centering on how Neil Sheehan, a reporter for The New York Times, came into possession of the Pentagon Papers. The Times has said that Mr. Sheehan did investigative reporting that led to publication of the papers.

It is not known what news stories prompted the Justice Department's action. Stories concerning the activity of the previous grand jury appeared in The Washington Post, the Boston Globe and The Times.

Dr. Seaborg
Quits Post as Head of AEC

Returns to Berkeley
For Atomic Research

WASHINGTON, July 21 (Reuters).—Glenn Seaborg, the brilliant chemist who directed America's nuclear-energy program for three presidents, resigned today as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

He is returning to the University of California at Berkeley to continue his research into transuranium elements, or heavy man-made elements, for which he shared a Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1951 at the age of 38.

President Nixon accepted Dr. Seaborg's resignation with what he termed special regret, and nominated James Schlesinger to the AEC post.

Mr. Schlesinger, 42, is an assistant director of the Office of Management and Budget in the White House and has concentrated on military budget planning.

New Role for AEC
The appointment of an economist and manager to succeed the science-oriented Dr. Seaborg is seen as in keeping with the AEC's evolving role as the United States shifts toward greater commercial exploitation of nuclear power.

Mr. Nixon heaped praise on Dr. Seaborg in accepting his resignation, saying: "As a world-famous chemist, scholar and administrator, you have contributed in a unique and meaningful way to far greater understanding and application of the miracles of the atom."

U.S. Warns It
May Act If Rail
Strike Spreads

WASHINGTON, July 21 (UPI).—Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe warned today that the rail strike if it spread could force the government to step into the work-rules dispute.

"There may come a point," where the strike would "impinge on the nation's ability to move its commerce," he told a news conference.

Meanwhile, negotiators for railroads and the United Transportation Union made another effort today to end the six-day-old strike against the Southern Railway and Union Pacific. There were no reports of progress.

The UTTU has threatened to strike the Norfolk and Western Railway and the Southern Pacific on Friday if an agreement is not reached in the dispute over changes in rules covering train crewmen.

The UTTU also has served notice of a strike July 30 against six other lines, mainly industrial roads, but including the Santa Fe Railroad, one of the nation's biggest.

Senate Unit Votes
Open Financing
Of RFE, Liberty

WASHINGTON, July 21 (UPI).—A year of straight government financing for Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty was voted today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

It was recently acknowledged that RFE, which broadcasts to Eastern European countries, and Radio Liberty, which broadcasts to the Soviet Union, had been financed by the CIA despite fundraising aimed based on their being "private" operations.

The administration proposed creation of a semi-public corporation to be known as the American Council of International Communications, Inc., with public financing and a board of directors appointed from the private sector.

The committee today rejected that approach, and instead approved a bill by Sen. Clifford Case, R., N.J., authorizing a straight one-year appropriation of no more than $32 million.

U.S. Sugar Act May Penalize Nations Seizing U.S. Assets
WASHINGTON, July 21 (WP).—The Senate Finance Committee voted yesterday to cut off sugar imports from any nation engaging in the future in the uncompensated expropriation of American property.

Ending weeks of debate on a House-passed bill to extend the Sugar Act for three years, the committee also:

- Retained the hotly contested South African sugar quota, raising the prospect of a floor fight;
- Retained a House-passed provision to reallocate 300,000 tons of the Puerto Rican and Virgin Islands quotas to U.S. producers;
- Showed preference for Caribbean-area suppliers among the more than 30 nations that take part in the sugar import program.

Committee chairman Russell B. Long, D., La., said the expropriation amendment would not be left to presidential discretion and would be applicable within six months of any uncompensated nationalization of U.S. property.

He said the amendment would apply only to future cases. For two present cases involving Peru, a separate clause would order that $20 per ton of sugar payments be withheld and turned over to firms whose properties have been seized without payment, retroactive to 1962. The House passed a similar bill retroactive to 1969.

Under the Sugar Act, foreign nations provide about 38 percent of U.S. sugar requirements and receive $150 a ton, some $40 above world-market levels.

In other developments, after an hour of sparsely attended debate, the Senate passed, 97 to 0, an $182-million appropriation bill to finance housing, veterans and space programs. The measure now goes to conference with the House.

NEW YORK, July 21 (WP)—Robert L. Vesco has set a deadline of July 25 for dissident IOS shareholders to drop their suit against him and the company...

In a letter sent to IOS on July 15, which was filed in St. John, N.B., on Monday, IOC Investments Ltd., a subsidiary of International Controls Corp., of which Mr. Vesco is chairman, demanded that IOS pay $4 million and issue one million new common stock warrants as a result of its "default" on a $5 million loan made by IOC last year.

Company Can't Function

In his affidavit, Mr. Hoffman said that under the terms of the injunction "the company cannot continue to function." He said that IOC Investments has the power to freeze bank account and seize assets, making it "impossible for the company effectively to carry on business."

While no mention is made in any of the court papers, Mr. Vesco is in a heated race to buy shares of IOS, to increase his voting power if the Canadian courts order a new election.

BRIDGE

By Alan Truscott

South got the best of a part-score duel with a world champion on the diagramed deal, played Saturday in an early round of the American Contract Bridge League's summer nationals. He eventually reached three hearts after his partner had opened a club and East had made a weak jump overall of two diamonds.

Hand diagram showing North and South cards. North: ♠ A J 8 6, ♥ 9 8 6, ♦ A 9, ♣ A 10 6. South: ♠ K 10 5 3 2, ♥ 7 4, ♦ A 5, ♣ 7 3. East: ♠ K Q 8 3, ♥ 7, ♦ K Q J 6 5 2, ♣ J 7. West: ♠ 9 8, ♥ Q J 10 7 2, ♦ 10 8, ♣ 9 5 4 2.

North ventured a reopening double and South then persevered in hearts to the three-level. A belated two-spade attempt by Bobby Wolff of the world champion Aces, who was sitting West, would have failed, but South could not know that his side was due to take four trump tricks against a spade contract.

The opening diamond lead was won with the ace in dummy, and a trump was led to declarer's ten and West's ace. Diamonds were continued, and South ruffed the third round with the heart queen. He continued with the spade queen and won with the ace when West covered with the king.

The heart nine was led, and when East ducked South overtook with the jack to lead the spade nine for a winning finesse.

A trump was surrendered to East, who was not uncharacteristically reluctant to open the club suit. He played a diamond, and when South ruffed Wolff had a discard problem.

He discarded the club three on the trump lead, and then parted with the eight. This allowed South to play the ace and ten of clubs, forcing a spade lead from West at the finish and making the contract of three hearts.

West should perhaps have assumed that his partner held the club jack and discarded one of high clubs, but South could still have made the contract by discarding dummy's spade eight. He could then arrange to give up a club trick to West, playing low if West played high on a club lead and vice versa.

RULES FOR RADICALS
A Pragmatic Primer for Realistic Radicals
By Saul D. Alinsky, Random House, 196 pp. $6.95
Reviewed by Milton Kotler

SAUL D. ALINSKY has been praised and reviled over the years. For his detractors who either think he is needlessly belittled or hopelessly untheoretical, and for the many who have praised him without knowing him, his new book, "Rules for Radicals," should clarify matters.

He opens to the point. "We are talking about a mass power organization which will change the world into a place where all men and women walk erect, in the spirit of that credo of the Spanish Civil War, 'Better to die on your feet than live on your knees.' This means revolution."

Spousing this aim is one thing; militantly organizing it is something else. And now we see why Alinsky has had the edge of his opponents. The liberal public is either too well-wishing toward the have-nots, or so indoctrinated in the "political process" that, faced with Alinsky, they don't believe he is organizing an army to battle them.

They think he is just after their elected representatives. Nor will they see this distinction, so long as they define war by physical weapons, when weapons are only a tool of warfare. And if Alinsky does not discuss weapons, it is not for moral, but for efficient reasons. He makes no claims of being nonviolent.

The third rule of the ethics of means and ends is that in war the end justifies almost any means.

After an emphatic discussion of the rules for warfare between the haves and have-nots, he discusses the education of the organizer, or more to the point, the characteristics of a good general. They are: curiosity, irreverence, tactical imagination, a sense of humor, a "blurred" vision of a better world, an organizer personality, a strong ego.

Fulfilling a general's obligation to mention the rules of warfare and the makings of a good officer, Alinsky moves on to his favorite dish, a general's true pleasure: tactics. And here the wind picks up and to the joy of the reader Alinsky begins to sail.

Speaking of wind, he treats us to a favorite tactic he proposed in the FIGHT organization in Rochester, New York. "I suggested that we might order one hundred seats for one of Rochester's symphony concerts. We would select a concert in which the music was relatively quiet. The hundred blacks who would be given the tickets would first be treated to the three-hour pre-concert dinner in the community, in which they would be fed nothing but baked beans, and lots of them; then the people would go to the symphony hall—with obvious consequences.

He discusses how all the tactical elements fit. The event would be outside the experiences of the establishment. It would make a farce of the law. People would recount the event and crack up in laughter. It would make the establishment look ridiculous.

On the other side, the tactic is within the experience of the local people, and they would enjoy doing it, in the sense that op-

Art Buchwald Kissinger's Illness

WASHINGTON—When the history books of this decade are written they will be referring to Henry Kissinger's trip to China as "the tummy ache heard round the world."

PARIS (HT)—Six courses and four wines on a train, even in France—poetic license, of course. But, there was a time when trains served gourmet meals.

Heading my list of gastronomic trains from Paris would have been the Golden Arrow from London. The train still exists, but the last time I took it I didn't even notice what I ate—a good sign, in a way.

"Our own agent at this time was describing the six-course meal with four wines which would be served to us by the French railway system on our journey from Marseilles to Paris."

—Russell Baker HT, July 2, 1971.

Grand Vefour, to organize its rolling kitchens. Transportation services are not always above suspicion of acquiring such prestigious names purely for publicity purposes, with no practical involvement required, but this is not the case for Oliver, who really works at it.

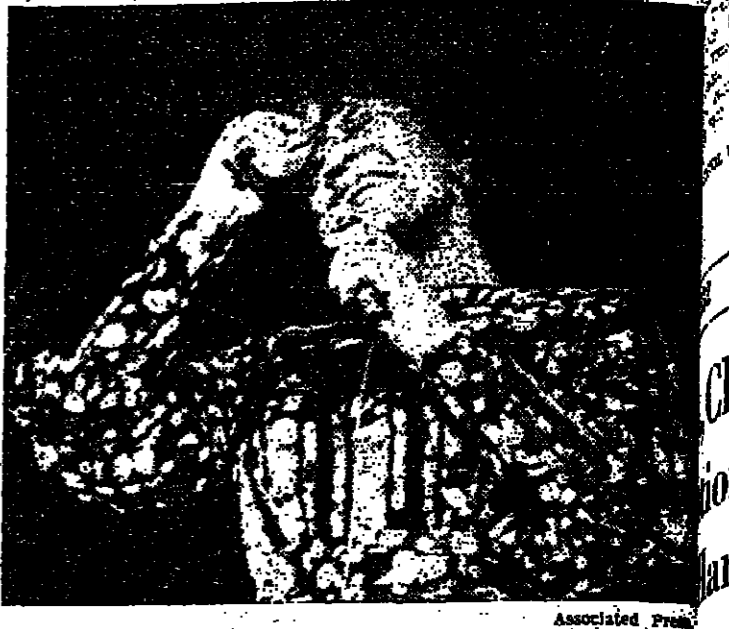

Airplanes

I had always assumed that serving anything more edible than a picnic snack on an airplane was a simple impossibility. I discovered the contrary on a flight of Air France's Chateau de Josselin from Paris to New York.

Favorites

My favorite ship was the Ile de France, a boat of distinguished elegance, with food to match. The Normandie was a little too self-consciously a work of art for my taste, which is quiet, but I admired its kitchens, which I was permitted to inspect.

All that remains of the once proud North Atlantic fleet of France, a navigational and culinary triumph, is the France, which I know only from having been walked through it at its dock in New York. I hope some day to have time to cross the Atlantic again on a ship before they become extinct, and subsist only as landlocked casinos, built in the sand of the Lanquede coast or anchored as offshore hotels in Japan.

PEOPLE: Ella Fitzgerald Suffers Eye Ailment

American jazz singer Ella Fitzgerald has called short a European and North African singing tour to return home via Paris for treatment of an eye ailment, UPI reported. After curtailing a final concert in Nice Tuesday night with a doctor standing in for her, Miss Fitzgerald, 53, left for Paris yesterday for medical advice and a short rest.

Prince Charles, the Prince of Wales, completed his Royal Air Force training Tuesday with a supersonic flight and will receive his wings in graduation ceremonies Aug. 20. Then after three weeks leave he will go on a training course at the Royal Naval College, Dartmouth.
